Reception was very good and atmosphere cordial. Faculty displayed a genuine interest in the Agency's work. All seemed surprised by the diversity of our skills and the inter-disciplinary nature of our functions. Many saw at once the analog between academic research and intelligence research.

I think our visits tended to place the Agency's public image in better focus. Since faculty turnout was low, I suspect we will need to go back regularly in order to be sure that the story gets across.

Cooperation of [redacted] in the area was excellent.
